Palm Stories are short stories that students write using nothing more than the palm of their hand, and a little bit of imagination. Teachers ask students to close their eyes and picture a number of different things, making point form notes along the way. At the end of their meditative journey, they will have the framework for a detailed story.

Writing a Palm Story: Ideation for Creative Writing—What—

Palm-of-the Hand Stories was coined by Japanese novelist Yasunari Kawabata to describe the many short stories that he has written over the decades in his long illustrious writing career. These stories were short, little fragments, sometimes a page long or a few pages, that conveyed a richness and wealth of emotions and topics.

Palm-of-the-Hand-Stories [Anthology, Slice of Life, Drama]—

Kawabata is best known in the United States for novels such as Snow Country, A Thousand Cranes, and The Sound of the Mountain, but he also wrote many very short stories — a form he called tanagokoro no shōsetsu ("palm-of-the-hand stories"). These short narratives are less concerned with plot, or story line, than with depicting momentary experiences and feelings that have wider meanings.
