"Practices and wonderful quotations to help re-open our heart." - Ram Dass, author of Be Here Now and How Can I Help? "Andrews provides such a wealth of creative and insightful ideas that his book is likely to change the meaning of your life forever." - Leading Edge Review "So faith, hope, love abide, these three; but the greatest of these is love. Make love your aim." - St. Paul One goal transcends all others, one purpose heightens all others, one emotion brings joy to all others: to love fully and without conditions. The most wise men and women of all religious and philosophical traditions have taught the art and practice of loving. Now for the first time, their knowledge has been distilled and collected in this one volume-with 144 practices for cultivating a loving heart. This is a unique and practical guidebook for loving-deeply and continuously-regardless of what happens to you as you go through life. With the inspiring quotations, valuable exercises, and insightful text of this volume, you can gain the skill and the will to turn living into loving. "Earth's the right place for love: I don't know where it's likely to go better." - Robert Frost "If you wish to open your heart to love, to explore the depth of your soul, to experience help on your spiritual journey, and to meditate on spiritual truths, then this is the book for you." - Gerald Jampolsky, M.D., author of Love Is Letting Go of Fear

In this book, Simon Bowmaker offers a remarkable collection of conversations with leading economists about research in economics. He has selected a broad sample of the great economists of our time, including people whose perspectives span most of the major subdivisions of economics research, from micro to macro, from theoretical to empirical, from rationalist to behavioral. From the foreword by Roger B. Myerson, University of Chicago, US and 2007 Nobel Laureate in Economics "The Art and Practice of Economics Research is the book I wish I had when I was growing up as an economist. For anyone who is or wants to be an economic researcher, or anyone just interested in how economics works, this is a terrific and inspirational resource." David K. Levine, Washington University in St. Louis, US "It is hard to imagine an economist in the world who would not enjoy this book. It is fascinating, gripping, and full of the wisdom imparted by age and by scholarly life's ups and downs." Andrew J. Oswald, University of Warwick, UK "Although each has followed his or her own road, these scholars share a passion for economics and a commitment to the research enterprise. The best economists lie sleepless, gripped by their questions." Joshua Angrist, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, US "This is a wonderful book of interviews with some of the most respected economists in the world. It is full of insights into academic life, and clearly conveys the joy of doing economics research." Jon Levin, Stanford University, US "The relaxed frame of the interviews gives interested parties exciting insights into the thoughts and concerns of leading economists and might well inspire some of the best young minds to continue with economics in their later lives." Ernst Fehr, University of Zurich, Switzerland The Art and Practice of Economics Research provides an in-depth look into the research methods of leading economists from across the United States and Europe. This innovative volume contains 25 interviews with practicing economists, presenting insightful personal accounts into an often-misunderstood field. Contributors to this volume were asked to reflect on their own experience in economics research, including their methods of working, the process of scientific discovery and knowledge creation, and the challenges of successfully disseminating their work. The unique and compelling interview format showcases each contributor's personal connection to his or her work, presenting a view of current economics research that is technical, comprehensive, and refreshingly human. Both students and current scholars in economics will find much to admire in this book's window into the inner workings of some of the brightest and best-known minds in the field. This volume would also make a great companion to the author's 2010 book, The Heart of Teaching Economics, which showcases the personal experiences of teachers and professors of economics.

A rich, powerful novel of betrayal and desire follow three people--American Frank Duggan, Hungarian Eva Koszegfalvi, and Ludovic Rohan, a French marine archaeologist--back to Paris eleven years after the tragic event that brought them together for the first time. (General Fiction)

Why can some organizations innovate time and again, while most cannot? You might think the key to innovation is attracting exceptional creative talent. Or making the right investments. Or breaking down organizational silos. All of these things may help—but there's only one way to ensure sustained innovation: you need to lead it—and with a special kind of leadership. Collective Genius shows you how. Preeminent leadership scholar Linda Hill, along with former Pixar tech wizard Greg Brandeau, MIT researcher Emily Truelove, and Being the Boss coauthor Kent Lineback, found among leaders a widely shared, and mistaken, assumption: that a “good” leader in all other respects would also be an effective leader of innovation. The truth is, leading innovation takes a distinctive kind of leadership, one that unleashes and harnesses the “collective genius” of the people in the organization. Using vivid stories of individual leaders at companies like Volkswagen, Google, eBay, and Pfizer, as well as nonprofits and international government agencies, the authors show how successful leaders of innovation don't create a vision and try to make innovation happen themselves. Rather, they create and sustain a culture where innovation is allowed to happen again and again—an environment where people are both willing and able to do the hard work that innovative problem solving requires. Collective Genius will not only inspire you; it will give you the concrete, practical guidance you need to build innovation into the fabric of your business.

The formation and communication of vision is one of the primary responsibilities of a director, before ever getting to the nuts and bolts of the process. The Art and Practice of Directing for Theatre helps the young director learn how to discover, harness, and meld the two. Providing both a practical and theoretical foundation for directors, this book explores how to craft an artistic vision for a production, and sparks inspiration in directors to put their learning into practice. This book includes: Guidance through day-to-day aspects of directing, including a director's skillset and tools, script analysis, and rehearsal structure. Advice on collaborating with production teams and actors, building communication skills and tools, and integrating digital media into these practices. Discussion questions and practical worksheets covering script analysis, blocking, and planning rehearsals, with downloadable versions on a companion website.

Slow Looking provides a robust argument for the importance of slow looking in learning environments both general and specialized, formal and informal, and its connection to major concepts in teaching, learning, and knowledge. A museum-originated practice increasingly seen as holding wide educational benefits, slow looking contends that patient, immersive attention to content can produce active cognitive opportunities for meaning-making and critical thinking that may not be possible through high-speed means of information delivery. Addressing the multi-disciplinary applications of this purposeful behavioral practice, this book draws examples from the visual arts, literature, science, and everyday life, using original, real-world scenarios to illustrate the complexities and rewards of slow looking.
