Georges Bataille in the 1930s: A Politics of the Impossible It is not easy to draw a map of the 1930s. This period in French history, which, to a great extent, extends to the present day, has progressively entered people's minds as that of a prewar while at the same time seeking to be experienced as that of the postwar. In such a

Georges Bataille was the son of Joseph-Aristide Bataille (b. 1851), a tax collector (later to go blind and paralysed on account of neurosyphilis), and Antoinette-Aglaë Tournarde (b. 1865). Born on 10 September 1897 in Billom in the region of Auvergne, his family moved to Reims in 1898, where he was baptized. He went to school in Reims and then Épernay.

Georges Bataille - Wikipedia

All profound life is heavy with the impossible. Georges Bataille (IE, 58; BR, 88) Georges Bataille (1897–1962) is still probably best known as a writer of erotic fiction and as a precursor of poststructuralism, but what do we really know about Bataille? During his lifetime he was a somewhat obscure figure, not widely read but closely supported
